REVIEW OF THE WEEK'S BUSINESS

Bank Clearings About Same as They Were for Corresponding Week Last Year.

MONEY MARKET WAS HIGH.

Real Estate Has Been Quiet-Some Activity in Harness-Merchants Deploring Non-Arrival of Goods.

Local business conditions during the week have not changed much, the general trend of affairs being such as might be expected during midwinter week. In banking, the events have been annual meetings, and declaration of dividends, while the First National bank of Murray and the First National bank of Montpeller, Ida, have increased each their capital stock from $5,000 to $50,000. The clearings for the week are about the same as the corresponding week of last year. The last private Wall street letter, dated Jan. 14. says: "The one factor of importprivate Wall street letter, date private Wall street letter, date in the stock market last week was ance in the stock market last week was the announcement of the desire of the pensylvania railroad for authority is ssue $109,000,000 of new stock and $1,000,000 of new bonds. Wall street lad made up its mind previously that he large demands for capital would be made this year by the Pennsylvania, especially as it was believed that the money received against the sale of its holdings of Norfolk & Western, Baltiholdings of Norfolk & interstate commerce commission also tended to make the market rather nervous, as it was pointed out that some of the plans of Mr. Harriman might be made impossible by the revelations brought out through the investigation. brought out through the investigation. The money market was quite high during the first three days of the week; it eased off, however, later, on announcement that the secretary of the treasment that the secretary of the treasment part of the repayment of $12,000,000 special deposits of public money with the national banks, which should have been returned in Jan. 20, Feb. 1 to the been returned in Jan. 20 and Feb. 1 to the treasury.

to the treasury. RATES OF INTEREST.

"We do not believe we shall have excessive rates of interest until toward spring, when the usual spring demand will probably cause a renewal of the strain upon the resources of the banks, unless there should be some material change in the situation. Opinions are divided as to the immediate future of our stock market, but so long as commercial and industrial conditions remain in such a highly satisfactory condition as at present, it is believed that values will advance and we shall see a rising market during the next 30 or 60 days. Inasmuch as good industrial stocks like United States Steel common. American Woollen common have not kept up with the railroad stocks, it is believed the public will turn to these shares in preference to the latter stocks, especially as there are no increased demands for as there are no increased demands for capital nor official investigations di-rected against them. "It is fully realized, however, that the great commercial activity through-out the United States, the demands of the railroads for new capital have produced an unusual demand upon the resources of this country, but it is expected that means will be found to furnish the necessary funds to carry on these operations."

REAL ESTATE QUIET.

quet the past week, with no marked features. However, sales continue to be made, though of moderate size. The Yalley House deal was closed up, so that Mr. Knight is now in possession of the property, and sales "made" cirlier in the year, are also being completed. Realty dealers regret the iendency of certain papers in town to print as actual transfers of property, initial payments on options. as it gives a false coloring to local conditions from what actually exists. While there is not much actual transferring just at present, dealers report a healthy feeling in the market, and feel certain that before spring opens there will be an active market.

The building trades are doing little, of course owing to the time of year, and the presence of so much snow on the ground. The principal event of the week in this line has been clearing the ground at Third South and Main for the new Rallroad Exchange building. All that remains is the drug slore on the corner which will move out as soon as the quarters on the block are completed; and this will be in a few days. Contractor Campbell has sounded the site of the new Newbouse skyscraper and ascertained that at 22 feet good hard soil exists. Then further up the street, plans are fast maturing for attractive and desirable structures on the old Deseret News corner, and the talk about town continues most hopeful for apartment houses and countless moderate sized homes in the early spring. The brick men are catching up with their orders, so that by Feb. 1, one of them says the slate will be clear.

HARDWARE TRADE.

HARDWARE TRADE.

The hardware trade reports a particularly busy week in reception and distribution of mining supplies and mathematically busy week in reception and distribution of mining supplies and mathematically a business that the presence of winter does not appear to affect very much. But there has been a falling off is shell hardware, and in builders' hardware. There is no further special cell, either for roller skates, as the demand throughout the state has been practically filled. But the harness part of the hardware trade still contages to do a lively business. One large house received this week a contage house received the hardware have said to have said the fact that hauling at this time of year calls for the best and strongest harnesses, as old harnesses will not stand the strain. So freighters are the house of general convention in a new siyle of gun guaranteed to kill coyoles at most any range, as well as birds and wild fowl. But not as much was teconplished as was hoped for.

CAR SHORTAGE DIMINISHING. HARDWARE TRADE.

CAR SHORTAGE DIMINISHING.

CAR SHORTAGE DIMINISHING.

The lumber trade reports things in letter state of things, as the car short-see is diminishing, and shipments are lessening up. However, local dealers and building operations start up, the less that as soon as spring comes, as shortage will once more assert it the less few months, fiaving ordered shead long ago, anticipating advanction the mills. A further advanction the mills. A further advanction has limited in pass lumber is feared, and the Washington state mills have, or are about, to advance fir lumber one dollar. California-made doors have advanced three points.

GOODS STILL OVERDUE.

The local wholesale dry goods trade feels depressed over the non-arrival of goods ordered long, long ago, and which do not yet materialize. Between the slow responses of manufacturers and delays on the railroads, the prospects are not encouraging. What business is being done is along staple lines of next summer goods. Eastern jobbers are reported forcing the fall of 1907 season, which is checking reordering on spring and summer weights. The carpet mills are oversold, with jobbers urging delivery of goods that are a month overdue, and salesmen have been called in from the road as no further orders can be accepted. All grades of rugs have been sold in large quantities, and that tary buyers are likely to get left. Manufacturers of tapestries claim to have enough orders on their books to last into the summer months, while it is now very difficult to order Axminster carpets for delivery before May 1. In the retail trade, the local stores have in many instances been holding special sales in most of their lines of goods, but especially in the matter of white underwear which has been going of like hot cakes at cheap prices. There has been a great run on waists and costumes, also blankets, quilts and such lines. Fashions for spring are beginning to be talked of, and buyers leave for the east next week. There will be a great amount of detail in the trimming of skirts, waists and beginning to be talked of, and buyers leave for the east next week. There will be a great amount of detail in the trimming of skirts, waists and separate outer garments. More styles in the way of tallored gowns are being shown for the spring season than was the case last year. Most of the suits have short skirts just escaping the ground. Then suits in complete costumes will have broad shoulder effects. The eton jacket, the pony blouse and blazer jackets are to be revived, and the Japanese robe for house wear is to be extensively inaugurated. Sleeves will be tighter fitting, and a gug plainer lines. In cloaks and suits, fanamas, serges, volles, etamines, silks amas, serges, voiles, etamines, silks and novelty woolen and worsted fab-rics will be in demand in the order named.

The clothing trade reports a good, steady business, but no particular features beyond an increase in the demand for goods snowy and colder weather would call for. Then there has been very fair sized sales in children's suits, and rubber clothing. There is a hat sale on which reduces the prices somewhat for the time, and in men's wear the trade is satisfactory.

what for the time, and in men's wear the trade is satisfactory.

The shoe market continues to boom, materially aided and abetted by the weather. There is a steady demand for high top shoes, and the snowstorms of the week have caused a run on rubbers the call for which has becombe heavier than ever. The leather market continues very high, with no evidences of falling. "Findings" and laces are higher than ever, there having been a recent advance in laces of 20 per cent. Clearance sales have been the order with some of the stores, a varied assortment being offered. There continues to be a demand by the purchasing public for high grade goods, or as ing public for high grade goods, or as one dealer says. "The quality of shoes demanded by the public has increased in about the same proportions as the increase in the volume of business;" that in this case, the current year should see the finest production ever

REAL ESTATE IS ACTIVE. Whatever effect the recent drench-

Whatever effect the recent drenching rains may temporarily have had on other lines of business here, it is evident that they in no degree lessened either the strength or activity of the real estate market. The volume of business in close-in business property and choice residence lots reportied last and this week has compared favorably with that of recent weeks and has tended to bear out the expectation of increased activity immediately after the turn of the year. The rains naturally interfered somewhat with sales of tract and other outlying property, but there has been little complaint on that score, as dealers and owners are fully alive to the fact that the ultimate effect of this generous downpour will be immensely beneficial to the whole of southern California, Receipts Show a Great Increase Over Previous Years According to W. H. Prickett Who is Here.

"The past year has been a record breaker for Kansas City stockyards," said H. W. Prickett, traffic manager of the Kansas City Stock Yards company. 'More cars, a greater number of head of cattle and sheep reached the Kansas City markets during 1900 than ever before." Mr. Prickett's great grandfather's brother was John Taylor, third assistant general freight agent for the St. Joe and Grand Rapids at Kansas City, and in covering the intermountain region for wool business built up an extensive acquaintance among railroad men and shippers in Utah and road men and shippers in Utah and neighboring states. After the convention of National Wool Growers now on in this city, Mr. Prickett will return to Denver, where he will attend the Livestock convention. Figures furnished by Mr. Prickett on business handled by Kansas City stockyards during the past year and comparisons with business of the preceeding year follows:

COAL SITUATION.

Railroads Preparing to Meet the Emergency of Prevailing Cold Snap.

the emergency caused by the recent snow storm, followed by the cold snap in the matter of supplying coal. While the storm has not been sevre enough to interfere with the transportation of coal, yet the great shortage of fuel has depleted even the supply of the railroads, and the needs of the commercial world, as well as of the people in general, seems to render the necessity for heroic action immediate, and it is announced that the roads, if necessary, will stop all other freight traffic over their lines to rush in trainloads of coal. The mines of Wyoming will be worked to their fullest capacity in order to replenish the supply of the roads and the people. The coldest part of the winter is thought to be yet in the future, and the railroads desire to utilize every means available to prevent suffering from the lack of coal. It was thought at one time to divert the smelter supply for a week or 10 days into commercial channels, but his idea was abandoned owing to the fact that a large number of men would thereby be thrown out of work, causing probably as much or more hardship than the other condition. in the matter of supplying coal.
